MARKET

TOP-DOWN

$50B-$100B

LATAM prediction market by 2030

LATAM = 6.8% of global gambling.

Global prediction markets forecast at $1T by 2030.

BOTTOM-UP

$7.5M-$9.4M ARR

Year 1 at scale

Mexico: 130M people

~20-25M active sports bettors

1% addressable Year 1 = 200-250K users

$150/mo avg volume × 2.5% fee

Benchmark: Polymarket $20B+/mo volume. 1% of that in LATAM = $200M/mo = $60M+/yr revenue at 2.5% fees.

BUSINESS MODEL

Two revenue engines

1

TRADING FEES

Fees range from 0.5% to 5% depending on market certainty. The closer to 50/50, the higher the fee. Near-certain outcomes cost almost nothing to trade.

Dynamic — implicit in spread, not charged separately

2

DATA-AS-REVENUE

Polymarket playbook for LATAM.
Real-time sentiment data that doesn't exist today.

- Financial media licensing
- Polling & research firms
- Hedge funds & trading desks
- Political consultancies

COMPETITION

Pronos combines Polymarket's model with LATAM-native positioning.

LEGAL & REGULATORY

1

Legal Classification

Pronos is structured as an information market, not a bookmaker. Peer-to-peer prediction trades on a decentralized protocol.

2

MXNB / Bitso Compliance

Settlement via Bitso's MXNB — a regulated, licensed stablecoin infrastructure. Compliant peso on/off-ramp.

3

Regulatory Advisor

Luis Fernando Valle Acosta structures compliance. Former Legal Director at Bitso. Ex-Crypto Legal at Grupo Salinas. General Counsel at Rio.

4

Precedent

Polymarket operates legally in the US as an information market. Kalshi is CFTC-regulated. The model has regulatory pathways.
